An Injured Husband Attempts to Shoot His Erring Wife.

But Finally Forgives Her and Takes Her Back to His Bed and Board.

Princeton, Ky., June 27.—Dr. G. D. Wright and W. O. Munday and wife, all of Springfield, Tenn., figured in a little sensation here yester Dr. Wright eloped from Springfield with Mrs. Munday and the couple were traced to this place by the angry husband, who learned that they were stopping at the Scott house near the I. C. depot. Munday armed himself with a pistol, went to the room occupied by the guilty couple and attempted to shoot his wife. Wright interfered and after a hard struggle succeeded in getting the pistol away from the infuriated husband. The whole party was ar-rested and placed under guard until this morning, when they threw themselves upon the mercy of the court. The affair was amicably adjusted and Mr. and Mrs. Munday returned to Springfield to enjoy a renewal of con nubial bliss.

Hobson and his men in Santiago harbor.

The President also recommended that Lieut. Hobson be transferred to the line of the navy and be promoted to such position as the President may hereafter determine.

He also sent a message to congress commending the bravery of Lieut. Frank H. Newcomb, commanding cutter Hudson, for rescueing the disabled gunboat Winslow off Cardenas on May 11. The President recommended that the thanks of congress be extended to him and his officers and his men and that a gold medal of honor be given him and his officers, and a bronze medal to each of the crew.

He also recommends that Capt. Hogdson who commanded the Hugh McCulloch at the battle of Manila, be placed on the retired list with full duty and the pay of his grade, in recognition of his efficient and meritorious service at that battle.

This action was taken in response to a request from Gen. Shafter and haste was ordered as the vessels are of the troops for the third expedition necessary for landing heavy siege petitors. guns and supplies.

There is a feeling in the army administration that the advance guard of invading forces against Santiago has gone too far ahead to be in a close touch with the base of supplies. Guns and necessary supplies have not all been landed.

Despatches from Shafter today give an adequate idea of the situation and the officials are pleased with the progress made toward Santiago. It is expected by this time that and Lawton are in possession of the principal approaches to Santiago, and that as soon as the guns are brought up from the coast an attack It is now believed the first stand in on the city and harbor will begin. Shafter's plan is to occupy a high point of land which Cervera's guns cannot reach, and with the heavy siege guns shell the city and the Sampson will then remove the Merrimac's bulk from the channel, take the ships into the inner harbor and attack Cervera's fleet and the defenses of the city.

Argument

Is not necessary to convince a thinking person that money is thrown away when invested in a typewriter that has not passed its experimental period.

Years of hard, thoughtful effort and continual experimenting are necessary before reaching approximate perfection in a writing machine.

Is it wisdom, then, for one to contribute to this cost of experiment?

Reputation Established
